THE DUNAL SWAMP.—The Norfolk Day Book claims that the Dunal Swamp is the healthiest place on the American continent. The same paper points out that instead of being lower than the surrounding level, the swamp has been shown by actual surveys to be from fifteen to twenty feet higher and that it pours its waters received direct from the clouds, into five different rivers which flow seaward from it.

"The swamp, says the Day Book, 'is formed entirely of green timber,' principally the juniper and cypress, which, it is asserted, never rot but when they fall to the ground turn gradually into peat without giving out any of the malarious gases usually produced by the decomposition of vegetable substances. It is even claimed that the water, 'tinged to a faint wine hue by the juniper,' is an invigorating tonic and that it 'is often used by naval vessels going on a long cruise on account of its healthful properties and because it keeps fresh and clear for years.'

When in addition to these things we read of its air laden with sweet odors, when we think of its shady recesses, and learn from numerous 'overseers and agents who have lived in the swamp their entire life time' supervising the labors of slaves or freedmen that 'they never knew a death caused by malaria or a solitary instance of ague and fever,' we almost feel warranted in believing that this must be the sort of place the poet was thinking of when he sighed 'for a lodge in some vast wilderness, some boundless contiguity of shade.'

GREAT MEETINGS are being held in various parts of England on behalf of Charles Bradlaugh's admission to Parliament. This does not by any means indicate a widespread sympathy with Bradlaugh's atheistic opinions, for in religious matters the masses of the English people are eminently conservative, and this is especially the case with the working classes among whom Mr. Bradlaugh finds most of his friends. What it does signify is that the participants in these meetings really believe in that doctrine of religious liberty upon which the English people have so long plumed themselves, and that as Catholics and Jews are no longer subjected to political disabilities on account of their religious beliefs, these people do not approve of imposing such disabilities on free-thinkers. Apparently they believe—and the belief seems to be a reasonable and sound one—that if there is any principle involved in the doctrine of religious freedom and equality, it applies not only to Protestants, Catholics and Jews, but also to Positivists, Evolutionists, Deists, Pantheists and even Atheists.

And besides the right of a person to sit in Parliament, hold office, or perform other civil functions without regard to his opinions on religious questions, there is an issue of equal or greater importance on the right of each constituency to choose its own representative without dictation from the representatives of other constituencies. It now seems likely that both of these rights will be vindicated by the admission of Bradlaugh.

THE EDITOR of the Republic pays the editor of the Sunday Herald the following compliment, which is certainly well merited:

Capt. Burritt may justly plume himself on the nomination of Gen. Hancock. The editor of the Sunday Herald has been most tireless in bringing about the result, and he has worked with excellent judgment and tact. No editor in the country has done as much.

The Republic adds: "It is a pity that it will come to naught next November." The Herald on the contrary closes its leader of yesterday with this prediction: Hancock will carry Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania and will be elected.

That Hancock "will be elected" is quite possible, but if his election depended on his carrying all the states here claimed for him his chances would be exceedingly slim. The probability that the Gulf will reach the North Pole would be a safer thing to bet on.

THE BISMARCK (DANOKA) Tribune of June 18, states that a Mr. A. Hoisinger, representing a large firm of hide and fur dealers in Chicago, had just arrived in Bismarck, after a trading visit to the Indian camps on Wolf and Poplar creeks, bringing with him a combination whistle, compass and match box, which Gen. Custer had in his pocket at the time of his charge. This relic Mr. H. had purchased from "the noted Gall, the worst Indian living," who has killed over forty white men and is believed to have been the slayer of Gen. Custer. Several trinkets formerly belonging to the General having been obtained from him. Mr. Hoisinger also secured the war bonnet worn by Sitting Bull in the Custer fight and in all the "excursions" of the past three years. This head-dress is said by the hostiles to be "the most beautiful war bonnet ever worn by an Indian."

THE SUPPLEMENTARY conference held at Berlin to consider the Greek boundary question has resulted in a decision which awards to Greece a narrow strip of Turkish territory, including the city of Janina, on which the Greeks had particularly set their hearts. One-third of the Greek speaking province of Zagora is included in the cession, the remainder being left in Turkish hands. There is a considerable Greek population still further north, especially along the coast, but the population of European Turkey is so intermixed that there is great difficulty in applying the doctrine of nationalities to the adjustment of boundaries between the new states which have been or are being formed in the crumbling dominions of the Porte. It is to be presumed that the decision reached in the conference just held will be enforced upon Turkey by the powers represented at Berlin.

WE PUBLISH in another column a communication animadverting on the substitution of benches for chairs in some of our public schools. We suppose the object of the change is economy, but economy at the expense of the comfort of the pupils, is neither humane nor wise. The pittance saved in the cost of seats may easily be more than lost by retarding the children's progress in their studies; for a sense of physical discomfort must necessarily distract their attention from their lessons. And when to this consideration we add the possible detriment to their health, we have reasons enough to bespeak careful deliberation before adopting the new kind of seats in additional schools.
